The original photographs of the World's Fair Exposition were secured with infinite labor and at great cost by the Official Photographers of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and the views are accompanied by graphic, interesting and authentic descriptions, written by Walter D. Stevens, secretary of the Exposition. The Star has the exclusive right to make the distribution of this territory and can assure its readers that no more beautiful, descriptive and complete record of this great industrial festival and assembly of nations can possibly be secured. Start it with a new year.

Judge De Bolt On Legislature

One thing has been established, which will be a powerful lesson to the legislators of the future. The law has a long arm, and it can and will punish legislative transgression. There has always been an idea in the Hawaiian mind that a legislator was above the law, but it is this idea that has been made into the fraudulent transaction which he entered into with Louis Johnson.
